ABOUT COURTNEY

Courtney Cutchins is the founder and voice coach of Seadragon Songhouse. For 15 years, she's been sharing her passion for music education, helping her clients learn to sing their songs and love their voices – from Seattle to New York City to Atlanta. With a Master of Music degree in Jazz Vocal Performance from the Manhattan School of Music, her coaching is informed by Somatic Voicework™ methods, as well as her experience as a recognized performing artist and educator. With a focus on all CCM styles (Contemporary Commercial Music) such as pop, rock, jazz, folk, musical theatre and original songs, she believes in trusting her client's creative voice to guide each session, encouraging their authentic and unique self to shine through.

Courtney's clients have won competitions and auditions, earned scholarships and leading roles, recorded albums, booked performances and speaking engagements, recovered from vocal traumas - and much more! Anyone can enjoy a more fulfilling life with an empowered voice and enhanced sense of self-expression!
